Mtrack
Practice what they Preach

Thatcham Triple Focus annual event provides an excellent opportunity for Insurers and the security conscious to review 2009 Thatcham accredited security systems.

Automatics boasts an impressive array of four new mtrack TQA certificates from Nordic manufactures ETS.

TQA114, 115, 116 & 117 for Active & Boatwatch in both mtrack and mtrackPro variants. All certificates achieved proactive alarming for illegal movement detection even if a thief uses the owners keys.

Owners utilise a driver ID remote control to arm the mtrack's inbuilt movement sensor. Alarms are triggered after a pre-configured movement time has elapsed, new parameters can then be sent from the server to deliver automated positional reports to the 24/7 monitoring centre.

After presenting mtrack Stolen Vehicle Recovery security systems at Thatcham Triple Focus 09, mtrack service providers Automatics were within hours helping the police uncover a vehicle fraud, directing Kent Police to stop a stolen Range Rover in a speedy twenty minute recovery operation.

The speed by which tracking systems report can be of paramount importance. Mtrack's quick response ensured Kent police received accurate data immediately to guide officers to the fraudulently hired Range Rover, just minutes before it could enter the Channel Tunnel.

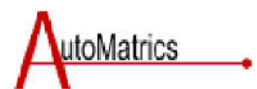

Proactive alarming is especially important to the leisure, marine and motorcycle insurance markets. Within these sectors Thatcham proactive alarming is mandatory.

Mtrack systems have successfully proved to be leading this field by producing the first ever Thatcham accreditations for Motorcycle and Marine stolen recovery suitability.

Groupama technical underwriters appreciate the significant benefits that mtrack provides by accepting mtrack Active with professional installation on the companies highest theft risk policies, competing alongside costlier CAT 5 products.
